Vergilius, poēta Rōmānus ille, scrīpsit carmen Latīnum clārum, “Quārtam Eclogam,” in quō dē parvō puerō, quī ex caelō mittētur et vītā deōrum immortalīum accipiet, dīcit. Hic puer, fīlius deī, nōbīs pācem et fidem spemque dabit. “Aetās aurea venit,” Vergilius inquit, “et in hōc mundō novō, quī ā puerō regētur, erunt nūllī labōrēs asperī, nūlla bella ācra; eō tempore, agrī ab agricolīs et nāvēs ā naufrīs relinquentur, atque hominēs metū līberābuntur. Illō diē, omnēs gentēs iterum erunt fēlicēs.”

III. Scrībe decem nōmina et prōnōmina in hāc fābulā quae in cāsū ablātīvō sunt et dīc usūs eōrum.
